The Democratic Republic of Congo (DRC) is an African country geographically located in Central Africa and has 9 neighboring countries. Based on its surface area and its regional integration on the African continent, the Democratic Republic of Congo belongs to economic zones such as: the East African Community (EAC), the Economic Community of Central African States (ECCAS); the Intergovernmental Authority on Development (IGAD), the Southern African Development Community (SADC).

The hydrological potential of the DRC is marked by the majestic Congo river, the most important river in Africa by its flow and the second river in the world with the largest basin. The relief of the DRC is dominated to the east by the large eastern rifts occupied by lakes Tanganyika, Kivu, Édouard and Albert; to the southeast by the high plateaus dotted with inselbergs (Katanga plateau), massifs with flattened summits (Mitumba mountains) and collapse ditches (Lake Upemba); to the west by a narrow sandy and sometimes marshy strip offering access to the Atlantic Ocean.

A visa is required in most instances to enter DRC. They can be obtained by application to the DRC Consulate or Embassy in the local country. Alternatively, a flying visa and airport visa can be paid for and collected on arrival, a visa on arrival for those nationals who do not need to pay a fee and also a special flying visa can be obtained.

The digital industry in the DRC is growing with the deployment of digital transport infrastructure (new submarine cables and the construction of new landing stations, extension of terrestrial cables to connect the various large scattered cities of the country on 2,345,000 m²); data center under construction; development of local content through the digitalization of consumer services.

Kinshasa is the capital of the DRC. It is the largest city in the country and covers 9,965 km². With an estimated population of 17 million in its metropolitan area. Kinshasa is a welcoming and secure city. It offers its visitors a varied range in terms of gastronomy, music and tourism.
